RAMPAGE

The fun and excitement of the game is underlined by many details. Both the scenery of the big cities and the individual animals are worked out very carefully and imaginatively: during a game with more than one player it often happens that they accidentally hit each other - their facial expressions and their gestures are portrayed with a great sense of humour.

They eat whatever they get in their fingers and if something is not good for them, you will see how: they spit, cough and choke...

We could make this description longer and longer, but just one detail: naturally these nice animals have names - the ape is named George, the lizard is Lizzie and the wolf is Ralph.

They'll be pleased to meet you!
